

Week 15 TE Rankings 1/2 PPR

Rk	Player	MATCHUP	TE Rank	IMP	SPREAD	BUST	BUS	Notes
1	George Kittle	ATL						Tight ends are very hard to predict I feel.
2	Zach Ertz	@ WAS						I'm afraid they won't need much against Washington
3	Travis Kelce	Denver						Didn't do well last time he played Denver but play your starters.
4	Jared Cook	IND						Fear is the Saints defense will do its job against the Colts
5	Tyler Higbee	@ DAL						Possible regression doing so well or Mcvay changes gears or Cowboys do their job.
6	Ian Thomas	SEA						Sets up well for Ian
7	Darren Waller	JAC						The game can easily shift to the Raiders being up and running it.
8	Hunter Henry	MIN
9	Jack Doyle	@ NO						Possible situation where targets are their to play catch up against Saints.
10	OJ Howard	@ DET						You can go ahead and risk it and it could happen.
11	Mike Gesicki	@ NYG						Has been up and down but opportunity can increase against G men without Parker.
12	Austin Hooper	@ SF						I think the niners will take care of business.
13	Jacob Hollister	@ CAR						This could be a runner's game.
14	Dallas Goedert	@ WAS						Might not need to score against Washington.
15	Noah Fant	@ KC
16	Kyle Rudolph	@ LAC
17	David Njoku	@ ARI						Snap percentage maybe too low but if he plays a full complement then arrow up
18	Darren Fells	@ TEN						Shootout potential could lead to a score.
19	Jonnu Smith	HOU						Shootout potential could lead to a score.
20	If you are this far down the list you might have problems unless you are in a deep league.							